

WANT ADS Whether you
WILL HELP seek a position
THE TIMES-DISPATCH or an employee

54th YEAR

NUMBER 19,854.

RICHMOND, VA., WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 30, 1914.—TWELVE PAGES

TO-DAY'S WEATHER CLOUDY

PRICE, 2 CENTS

POSSIBILITIES IN LATIN-AMERICA TOLD BY BARRETT

Director-General of Pan-American Union Addresses Trade Conference.

BIG OPPORTUNITY TO INCREASE COMMERCE

Speakers Agree That European War Places Opportunity in Hands of United States.

SESSION CLOSES WITH DINNER

Chairman William H. White Names Committee to Perfect Plans to Extend Business.

Speaking as an officer of the government of twenty Latin-American countries and as the personal representative of the presidents of those national divisions of the great southern continent, John Barrett, director-general of the Pan-American Union, stirred the conference of business men on trade extension in South and Central America to unbounded enthusiasm and immediate action yesterday afternoon when he painted before their vision a colorful picture of the possibilities which lie at the southern gateway of the United States.

As he measured in concrete terms the opportunity for a tremendous increase in the foreign commerce of this country Mr. Barrett pointed out also that it was no dream of another (colony) that he was reviewing, that the harvest was just in the seed and that its reaping would require careful and constant tillage if it were to be garnered by North American hands. He said that the Latin-American countries, on account of the war in Europe were undergoing a great financial stringency and that the United States, if it desired to open up the new-blooming field, would have to extend to its sister republics a credit system equal to that which has been given the nations of the far South by the financial agencies of Europe. But the opportunity is there, he said, "the greatest opportunity which the United States has ever had, but you must go after it and keep on going after it until you have gotten it."

WAR PLACES OPPORTUNITY IN AMERICAN HANDS.

Other speakers who followed Mr. Barrett agreed that the opportunity was present and that it should be accepted. John R. Arnold, vice-president of the Foreign Trade Division of the Chicago Association of Commerce and an officer of the First National Bank of Chicago, said that it was but fair and just that "we should make use of the opportunity which the unfortunate war in Europe has placed in our hands." And it was Mr. Arnold who opened up a new vista of prosperity when he told of what the Chicago Association of Commerce is doing in the way of opening up the Mississippi Valley and the Southeast. "And what we are doing there," he said, "we are also doing for you, our services are as much for you as for ourselves, and we believe that such reciprocity will bring equal prosperity to all of us."

Called primarily to discuss extension of trade in the far Southern countries, the conference engaged in the discussion of many related subjects, the railroad in the South coming in for a large share of the talk and the cotton industry arousing commentary as to the means of relieving the disaster into which the European war has brought the Southern planter. Mr. Arnold said that a bank credit system for the handling of cotton should be established and finally the staple could be disposed of.

The conference was called to order in the morning at 10:30 o'clock by President W. T. Reed, of the Chamber of Commerce. William H. White, president of the Richmond Merchants' Association and Potomac Railroad, was elected chairman, and H. H. Richardson, acting director of the commerce and independent department of the Southern Settlement and Development Organization of Baltimore, who was actively engaged in preparing for the conference, was elected secretary.

CONFERENCE ADJOURNS WITH INFORMAL DINNER

As many of the delegates, some of whom were from distant States and cities, had to return yesterday, and in view of the fact that most of the preliminary work had been completed in the first session, it was decided not to prolong the conference through to-day, and it adjourned with an informal dinner at the Jefferson Hotel last night.

In order, however, that the work begun so successfully and earnestly should proceed with all possible haste a committee of citizens was appointed to perfect plans for trade extension and to arrange for a permanent organization looking to that end. The committee, appointed by Chairman White, follows:

Julius S. Carr, Durham, N. C., cotton and cotton goods; K. Clyde Connel, Washington, D. C., edge tools; W. L. Andrews, Baltimore, coal; J. T. Ryan, High Point, N. C., furniture; W. T. Reed, Richmond, tobacco; W. H. White, Richmond, transportation; John L. Mackay, Baltimore, Southern development; T. M. Carrington, Richmond, tobacco; H. H. Richardson, Baltimore, secretary; L. L. Johnson, Norfolk and News; R. V. Covington, Newport News; E. Oliver Folkes, Mobile; S. Davies Warfield, of Kentucky; R. T. McCallum, Louisville, Ky.

The committee was appointed upon the adoption of the following resolution:

Whereas, at a conference of Southern business men held at Richmond, Va., on call of the Richmond Chamber of Commerce on September 25, 1914, there was a full discussion of the opportunities of increasing the foreign trade of the South with the Latin-American countries of Central and South America, and with Australia, China and Japan owing to the European war and the opening of the Panama Canal;

"And whereas, it was brought out at the conference that new banking and steamship transportation facilities were rapidly being adjusted to the new conditions prevailing;

"And whereas a plan for the establishment of permanent Southern bureaus and exhibits of the South's manufactured products in charge of expert

The Times Dispatch

GERMAN RIGHT REPORTED BROKEN, WITH ALLIED ARMY IN HOT PURSUIT

Ruins of the Malines Cathedral

Interior view of St. Rombold's Cathedral at Malines after the German shells had completely destroyed its priceless treasures. The cathedral was begun in the twelfth century and completed in the fifteenth, with the exception of the tower.

LITTLETON AND GLASS ON PROGRAM

Secretary Farnsworth Announces Program for Bankers' Convention.

APPROVES ARRANGEMENTS

Members of Federal Reserve Board and Other Distinguished Men Are to Take Part.

Former Congressman Martin W. Littleton, of New York, and Congressman Carter Glass, of the Sixth Congressional District of Virginia, will be the principal speakers on the third day of the American Bankers' Association convention—the first of the two days that will be devoted to the general business of the convention—as a whole. Congressman Glass will speak at the morning session on Wednesday, October 14.

The convention will open on Monday, October 12, and the first day will be given up wholly to meetings of about 100 speakers who will make addresses of various kinds. The morning session of Tuesday morning and continue in the afternoon with sessions of the trust company, savings bank, clearing-house and state secretaries' sections of the association.

On Wednesday and Thursday will be held the general sessions of the convention. Speakers of national prominence will make addresses, and men known for the length and breadth of their country's banking world will discuss the many problems of finance. Among the men who will address the bankers at Thursday's session will be Logan Waller Page, director of the office of Federal Reserve, United States Department of Commerce; Edward K. Graham, president of the University of North Carolina; and J. D. Easton, president of the Virginia Polytechnic Institute.

A business program of the convention, consisting of all but a few particulars, was submitted to the local administrative committee yesterday by Colonel Frederick E. Farnsworth, of the American Bankers' Association. The committee, at a meeting held yesterday afternoon at the Old Dominion Hotel last night, and went over with the plans for the entertainment of the convention.

At Richmond undertook to entertain the American Bankers' Association. We knew that there would be nothing lacking in the entertainment," said Colonel Farnsworth, at the Jefferson Hotel last night. "The plans in this respect are thorough, and in every way excellent. I anticipate for the delegates who will attend the convention a most enjoyable stay in the city."

"All signs point to a well-attended and most successful convention," the business program is almost complete and promises a number of interesting addresses. We have extended invitations to the members of the Federal Reserve Board, and it is probable that one of the board will come to address the convention. I expect the Richmond registered delegates.

Monday, October 12. Meetings of committee, complete. (Continued on Fifth Page.)

The Belgian city of Alost devastated by the German soldiers.

This scene of utter ruin and desolation shows the almost irreparable damage done to the city by the rain of German shells which swept through the one-time capital of Imperial Flanders on their mission of destruction. The famous church of St. Martin (its tower and spire are seen rising above the ruins), one of the largest and finest in Belgium, is but little damaged, though practically all the surrounding buildings are considerably damaged.

MASS-MEETING TO AID COTTON-BUYING PLAN

Business Men Gather at Chamber of Commerce To-Morrow Night to Organize.

WILL APPOINT COMMITTEE

Prominent Men Will Be Named to Carry Out Task of Purchasing Staple to Relieve Situation in South Caused by War.

The "Buy-a-Bale-of-Cotton" movement, recently launched and backed by Richmond's most prominent business men, will develop into a permanent organization to-morrow night at a mass-meeting which has been called to assemble in the Chamber of Commerce auditorium at 8:30 o'clock. At this time a committee, recently named for the purpose, will report and outline the plan, which has been developed solely for the purpose of aiding the cotton-growing section of the South. A permanent buying committee will be organized and elected, and before the end of the week, it is expected, the movement will be in full swing in Richmond.

The business men of Richmond who are interested in relieving the cotton situation in the cotton-growing belt include lawyers, men of letters, retailers, bankers and others. All of these have been invited to be present at the organization meeting, while participation by the average citizen is looked forward to as no small part in solving the problem. One of the leaders in the movement said yesterday that all of these and any one who has at heart the welfare of the South should lend his moral support by being present.

COMMITTEE HAS PLAN TO INSURE SUCCESS

The committee, which has been busy arranging all details to effect a permanent organization, is composed of Charles T. Norman, chairman, J. T. Pabantry and William T. Dabney, Mr. Norman said that the committee has prepared a petition, which, if carried out, will no doubt insure a successful culmination of the buy-a-bale movement.

After the plan has been outlined, a committee of three, drawn from the city's most prominent men, will be elected, and in the hands of this committee will rest the task of recruiting subscriptions from those who wish to purchase cotton. They will issue club receipts to each buyer, and at the proper time will dispose of the cotton as a whole. It is proposed to buy the cotton at 10 cents a pound.

As soon as practicable, the committee will open quarters at some convenient place, employ a secretary and clerical staff to take care of the business, which is anticipated.

WILL BE ABLE TO MEET ANY OBJECTION

Mr. Norman said that his committee had gone carefully over every phase of the matter, and that it was prepared to meet any objection.

KING COTTON'S PLIGHT HAS NOT BEEN SOLVED

Southern Governors and Congressmen Adjourn, With No Specific Plan of Action.

CURTAINMENT IS APPROVED

Acreeage for 1915 May Be Reduced by One-Half—Resolutions Pledge Seeking of Federal Aid for Growers—Committee to See Wilson.

WASHINGTON, September 29.—Southern Governors and Congressmen concluded a series of conferences here to-day without determining upon any definite plan for the relief of cotton planters from conditions growing out of the European war. While they resolved that next year's cotton acreage should be materially reduced, no specific means of curtailing were agreed upon.

It was agreed to attempt to secure Federal legislation that would enable planters to obtain loans from the banks on their surplus crop, while prompt action was urged upon the warehouse bill, which has been introduced in the Senate by the late Senator Aldrich. The bill proposes the repeal of the 10 per cent tax on State banks which participate in the amended Aldrich-Vreeland emergency currency act. They determined to attempt to maintain cotton prices above 10 cents a pound, and a committee was named to submit the conference resolutions to President Wilson. The resolutions, unanimously adopted, are:

"Resolved, That it is the sense of this conference:

"That the acreage of cotton to be cultivated in the United States in 1915 shall be materially reduced. That to accomplish this end every legitimate means shall be employed."

EVERY POSSIBLE EFFORT TO SECURE LEGISLATION

"That the members of this conference shall make every possible effort to secure Federal legislation which will enable the producers of cotton to obtain loans of public funds deposited in the banks at a reasonable rate of interest to be fixed by the government, upon such part of the present crop and under such conditions as may be prescribed by law and by the rules and regulations lawfully made by the Treasury Department."

"Resolved, That it be the sense of this conference that there be established by joint resolution in the House of Representatives and the Senate of the United States a commission looking to the extension of the consumption and marketing of cotton goods, and that Senator Hoke Smith prepare such resolution."

"Resolved, That it is the sense of the conference that the House of Representatives should pass the Senate bill allowing the State banks to issue emergency currency under the provisions of the Vreeland-Aldrich bill as amended."

(Continued on Eighth Page.)

BRYAN THINKS PEACE IN SIGHT FOR MEXICO

Prospects Brighter in Troubled Republic Than They Have Been Since Madero's Downfall.

CARRANZA LIKELY TO QUIT

Conference To-Day Expected to Agree on Calderon as Provisional President—Villa Promises to Cease Hostilities When Demands Are Met.

WASHINGTON, September 29.—Optimistic dispatches to-day from Consul Stillman and the Brazilian minister at Mexico City caused Secretary Bryan to inform President Wilson that the prospects for restoration of permanent peace in Mexico were brighter than at any time since the overthrow of Madero by Huerta.

In the light of all advices both from Mexico City and Chihuahua City, General Villa's headquarters, officials here still are confident that the new upheaval threatened by the breach between Carranza and Villa will be averted by the latter's retirement as chief of the Constitutionalists and the election of Fernando Iglesias Calderon as Provisional President.

The text of the communication sent to General Carranza by the military and civilians of the division of the north, Villa's division, appealing to him to resign in favor of Calderon, was made public by the State Department to-night. It follows:

"The generals, chiefs and officials of the city division of the north, as well as the civilians undersigned, sincerely moved by the patriotic and dignified attitude worthy of the greatest of our countrymen, appeal to you, General Carranza, to save the fatherland from his terrible and painful danger in which it finds itself, we address ourselves to you in order to manifest to you that our brothers of the other divisions do not in vain invoke our sentiments of dignity, our conscience of honor and our just love that we have for our fatherland."

"It is likewise our greatest ambition that the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp of battle in defense of the ideal of liberty and justice. Like our above-mentioned brothers, we are convinced that the greatest ambition of the regenerating work of the Constitutional revolution may not fail, and we embrace the hope that the brothers of our brothers shall not have been futile in the camp